The first one is an image. When I click on the image a second page with some fields opens. In the third page I have a button to get a new image. The issue is that the PageRouter doesn't get to invoke the third page because the get parameter doesn't get to the component, not even the placeholder, as explained in the following code: export class ImageComponent implements OnInit { constructor(private pageRouter: PageRouter) { } ngOnInit() { } ... } export class IconItemComponent implements OnInit { @Component({ selector: 'image-item', template: ` 82157476af
